THE AUDITORIUM.

With this popular vaudeville horse crowded again last night with people eager to see the Coronation and Mutt and Jeff pictures, as well as the three vaudeville numbers, all went away pleased and voted the Coronation one of the best pictures of its kind they ever saw and the Mutt and Jeff talking photo-farce positively the funniest thing ever shown on a screen. The feature film of our new film for today is a Rex entitled The Artist Financier and depicts a very interesting novel story in which the artist while at work in his studio sees through a telescope a party of surveyors surveying a piece of land some distance away, and through his ability to read the lips, a trick learned from a deaf sister, he learns a financier's plans and uses his knowledge to good advantage.

Other photoplays for tomorrow are A Charitable Young Lady, If One Could See Into the Future and The Baumgarten is Elected, a screaming comedy.

BREED THEATER.

Rescued in Time, the very thrilling and brilliant story of western life, is the feature at the Breed today and is full of that vigor that dominates all successful stories of the plains. The lady in the case is a widow. The men are cowboys, and through his ability to read the lips, a trick learned from a deaf sister, he learns a financier's plans and uses his knowledge to good advantage.

Another photoplay for tomorrow is A Charitable Young Lady, If One Could See Into the Future and The Baumgarten is Elected, a screaming comedy.

The balance of the pictures are equally strong and interesting.

MRS. GERAGHTY'S LETTER TO "MARRYING JUSTICE" SPITZ.

Believes Two Weddings Will Suffice, and Thanks Him for Kind Offer.

NEWARK, Aug. 22.—New Jersey's "Marrying Justice" for Henry Spitz of Union Hill, N. J., is proudly exhibiting a letter from Mrs. Julia French Geraghty, whose eloquent and fashionable Newport style she has displayed so immediately on receiving news of the eloquent Justice Spitz telegraphed to the pair an invitation to make free use of his services. Mrs. Geraghty's reply, just received, is as follows:

"Dear Mr. Spitz: Your very kind letter received. I want to apologize for not having answered it till now, but you cannot imagine how rushed we have been. We have really not had a minute to ourselves. Nothing but curious people from morning till night. As you will see by the papers, we have been married a second time by the Catholic church, and I think now no other marriage will be necessary, but thank you just the same.

"We are very happy and contented, and outside of a little too much notoriety everything is going along beautifully. We would like very much to hear from you often in the future. Thanking you again, I remain, yours sincerely,

"MRS. JACK GERAGHTY."

RACER SLID 300 FEET BEFORE TURNING TURTLE.

Elgin, Ill., Aug. 21.—Bursting of a tire on a racing car driven by Ralph Ireland as he turned out on the Elgin course, led to a fatal accident, driving another racer to pass, the strain and burst, throwing the machine into a ditch. The big racer tore along for 300 feet before it turned turtle, pinning Ireland beneath it. O'Brien was thrown for 100 feet.

CONGRESSMAN HIGGINS TO REMAIN AT CAPITAL

Is Member of Committee Conducting Wiley Investigation.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Washington, Aug. 2.—The house of representatives opened its session yesterday on a scene which strongly resembled some of the sittings of the extra session two years ago, with the principals reversed.

Representative Underwood, majority floor leader, first asked unanimous consent that the house should pass the cotton bill, after four hours' debate, and that the bill and senate amendments should be voted on, en bloc. Representative Anderson, republican insurgent, of Minnesota, objected, saying that he wanted a separate vote on the amendments. Failing to secure unanimous consent, Representative Henry of Texas, chairman of the committee on rules, called the majority members of his committee together and retired to the rear of the hall and an impromptu hearing was held. In less than a minute the committee reported a special rule. This brought the minority members of the committee to the floor, and they announced the rule as more drastic and infamous than any that had ever been used to jam bills through a congress.

Mr. Madison, republican insurgent, of Wisconsin, said it was much worse than the famous republican rule by which the Payne-Anderson bill was railroaded through the house two years ago. The special rule was adopted, however, and after a four hour grind the cotton bill, just as it came from the senate, was passed.

Everybody is anxious to get away. Representative Henry, chairman of the committee on rules, last evening, Mr. Hill and Mr. Reilly will remain in the chamber until the last fall of the hammer.

Lightning Burned Hole IN MAN'S HIP POCKET.

Portions of Wrench and Jackknife Melted by the Fluid.

Mansfield Center, Conn., Aug. 21.—Joseph Haver, a farmer, who is suffering from a severely burned leg, it is learned today, as a result of the lightning's freak during the storm of last Friday night, was sitting in the kitchen of his house, near the stove, when the lightning entered the house and struck him, burning a hole in his seat, and melting the wrench and jackknife, which he was using, and the lightning melted the end of the wrench and the metal of the knife.

BOYS LASHED WITH STRAP BY ORDER OF THE COURT.

New York Magistrate Thought Mothers Were Too Lenient.

New York, Aug. 21.—Four boys between 12 and 15 years of age were spanked by order of the children's court today for rowdyism last night on a subway train. The court, presided by Judge S. M. Spitz, pointed its interpreter, Manuel Weinberg, to see that the spanking was done as a business-like manner.

The youngsters' mothers, in his opinion, were too lenient, and with the sanction of the court he administered to each of the boys a lash with a two-inch strap, a quarter of an inch thick, shredded to 12 ribbons of leather at the end. The whipping was sufficiently severe, according to the judge, to prevent any of the quartette from sitting down for two hours.

GROWS HAIR FOR MARKET.

Woman in Brooklyn Adds Materially to Her Income by Tresses.

New York, Aug. 21.—Over in South Brooklyn there is a little woman, she is not yet 50, who literally supports herself by the hair of her head. True, the support is not a very high one, but she draws a pension from the government as the widow of one who fought in the civil war, and she makes a few dollars sewing and embroidering, but the crop of hair she raises—grows to order at times—furnishes no small part of her income.

The woman has had pure white hair ever since she was a girl, and it grows at a phenomenal rate. In a year it has been known to grow three feet, and it is seldom that it grows that length of time without being cut. And the more it is cut the faster and thicker it seems to grow.

White hair is the rarest kind there is, dealers say. A good switch of white hair will cost up to $24, and at that will not be more than 15 inches long. So much hair has this woman on her head that one cutting is enough to supply her needs for a year, but in months. About every two or three months she visits a hairdresser in Brooklyn and is shorn of her glory, receiving sometimes as much as $24 for it. On one occasion, where a customer wanted a three-foot long switch and the dealer had none in stock, the producer, so to speak, permitted her hair to go uncropped that long, receiving $75 for it.

The value of hair increases almost in ratio to its length. A switch of 16 inches long worth $10 would be worth $20 when it is 20 inches long, and when it is 25 inches long it would cost nearer $30. Only the more wealthy folk want the very long hair, it is explained, and they are well able to pay for it.

Bristol City.

The three river towns, Hartford, Windsor and Waterbury, have been here longer than Bristol has, but age isn't everything; beauty and youth count. Bristol has been with us quite a while, and always and increasingly a credit to the Connecticut family. New Britain is a city with every right to the name of "new destination." Her charter is not copied from Galveston or Des Moines, but it contains several of the latest improvements and (by remote) the most provoking not only by his excellency the governor, but by Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus and municipal government expert. The militia and referendum are in the charter; the recall is there, too. "Every incumbent of an elective office shall be subject to recall by the voters of the city." The other Connecticut cities will watch with attentive interest the trying out of these devices in the city of Bristol. May Bristol City live forever, and in ever-increasing prosperity and happiness.—Hartford Courant.

Proof of His Ability.

There can no longer be any doubt that Woodrow Wilson is in the presidential game to stay. A few days ago he refused to pick the prize infant in a baby show.—Cleveland Leader.

A Plain Case.

Do Not Wash the Scalp

with common soaps; even good common soaps are injurious to the hair. They make the hair brittle, harsh and scaly, the scalp becomes dry and scaly, refuses nourishment and the hair begins to fall out.

LIQUID SHAMPOO (25 cents a bottle) is made for the hair only—is cleansing, refreshing and soothing.

DANDRUFF CURE AND HAIR TONIC

50 cents and $1.00 a bottle used occasionally on a clean scalp will keep the hair soft and healthy.

A Horny-Handed Son of Toil.

The Saturday Evening Post of Philadelphia, in its sparkling biography of Congressman E. J. Hill, hits the highest point of that sort of thing by pointing the portrait of another man as that of Mr. Hill. In the course of its ridiculous comments it says:

"He whirled around rapidly six times when you ask him what time it is, and throws seven triple somersaults if you dispute anything he says. His fists are so calloused from pounding on his desk, he could make a good vaudeville living as Evan the Iron-fisted Man, who breaks the hardest rocks with one mighty blow of his adamant hand."

Although not strictly a "horny-handed son of toil," Mr. Hill has a hand with the scale power to form a fist, as Whittey says, and when he rebelled against the abuses and insults of Speaker Cannon and shook that "bullet of five" under the speaker's nose, Cannon came down and apologized! Has any other republican fist in congress such a record?—Bridgeport Standard.

WILSONS ARE COMING.

The Wilsons are still coming to the front. Not to mention James and Woodrow, Charles A. Wilson has just been chosen chairman of the republican state committee of Rhode Island, and now John S. P. H. Wilson has been elected to a similar position by the democrats.—Brooklyn Transcript.
